Welcome!

The 2021 Tasmanian Volunteering Awards nominations close on March 15th. It's sometimes not acknowledged that many of the vital services that people rely on every day would not happen if it were not for volunteers. Sometimes there's not just one volunteer making a significant impact – it can be a whole group that come together to make amazing things happen. Organisations and volunteers, as well as members of the community, are encouraged to nominate their own volunteer group or volunteer-run program to recognise the positive impact it's had. From sports and the arts, to health care, to emergency services, to social welfare and the environment, volunteers young and old play an active role in every aspect of community life.

Thank you so much to Wynyard Rotary (another local group full of amazing volunteers!) for a very generous donation recently. We will use the donation to install an irrigation system in our greenhouse. We have been using our greenhouse quite a lot lately for growing seedlings to donate to Grow, Gather, Give, and to grow capsicums and tomatoes to supplement the Live Well Veggie Boxes.

We are thrilled to recently start our main project for 2021, which has been possible due to funding from the Foundation for Rural and Regional Renewal and Australia Post. We are providing a regular schedule of sessions on a range of activities proven to increase health and wellbeing, such as arts, crafts, music, movement and gardening. One of our amazing instructors is Jan Marinos.

Jan runs Paper Art workshops for Wellbeing, the following is Jan's thoughts on the benefits of art for wellbeing (see <http://www.tasmanianhandmadepapers.com/>). By making art we create space and time to connect our heart and mind. Creating with your hands is a simple yet profound process which allows you to connect through materials, processes and learning with your hands. Social engagement with others in group art activities supports balance between physical, mental, emotional and spiritual well-being. In the process of making we find opportunities for playfulness, exploration, exercising choice and self-reflection. As a form of communication, art allows us to express our feelings without the need for words. Watch your ideas evolve, there are no mistakes as we are always observing and learning. Art group activities bring opportunities for positive engagement with others while the process of exploring new creative materials, techniques and creative expression enhances our wellbeing.

We are also starting Life Skills sessions next week, Leanne is going to impart her considerable knowledge on "Seven habits to improve your life", time management and life balance and a process for identifying your all important social networks.

While we are utilising local experts like Jan to lead many of the sessions, we are also seeking Community Facilitators. If you would like to help lead a class in any of these or similar area, please get in touch! Your reward will not only be the good feeling from sharing your passion with others, we will also give you a voucher for $20 to a local business in Wynyard. See below for further details.

Update Live Well Tasmania

The Connections Project

This is our main project for 2021 which will run until November this year. It is mostly in the form of “Come and Try” different activities ranging across art, crafts, music, movement, gardening and learning other practical skills such as woodworking. We want to try and make people’s lives easier by reducing stress, by increasing social networks and promoting the benefits of learning new skills. The project uses strong research and evidence that one of the best predictors of good health is having a strong support network, having good relationships and people you can count on to help out particularly when you are going through a rough patch. In our busy and sometimes stressful times many people lack these social networks, and have nowhere to go for “time out”.

We have made a great start with our now weekly “Sewing Connections” sessions. As well as Rotary donating money to us, Janet also donated three sewing machines to add to our existing machines, so you don’t need to bring your own!

We have also had two art and craft sessions so far, the first involved painting to music (great fun!) and the second was led by paper artist Jan Marinos, who is a paper maker/chemist, community artist, teacher and co-founder of Creative Paper Tasmania.

We feel very privileged to have tutors such as Jan and Cat StEvens, our wonderful art teacher from last year. As mentioned above we are also seeking people who may not have experience teaching, but who have a passion related to art, crafts, music, movement, gardening, and/or Do It Yourself (Ourself!) - any hobby basically that you would like to share with others. We will provide a basic induction and support you to share your passion, and reward you with a $20 voucher for a local business.

Community and Business Information sessions

Dave Fregon, formerly the Youth Development Officer with the Burnie City Council, now with his own non-profit organisation, Hard Mode, delivered a very engaging presentation of Youth Digital Literacy recently at the Live Well Community Centre. There is some concern these days about youth internet addiction, however Dave has a different focus in terms of leveraging youth’s interest in gaming and the internet into related activities that develop their skills that are likely to help them in life in general, and in a variety of career’s. The main message I got from Dave’s talk was that youth’s (as with other generations as well) interest in online activities is dominated by a desire to connect with other people. People who study our use of the internet say a major reason that our wireless devices are addictive is because we are a deeply social species, and we increasingly rely on devices to connect with other people (for better or for worse!). This is important because we know that close relationships are the strongest drivers of happiness. We are wired for frequent and genuine social interaction, and a need to belong.

We had great participation during Dave’s talk including from Gavin Pearce MP who has engaged with youth recently with regards to School Climate Action. Gavin noted the issue of language in engaging with young people, that sometimes there is a divide created by a difference in language of the older generation and younger generations. He noted that being conscious of that, and encouraging both ‘sides’ to try and be more understanding of each other is essential to improve communication. Thank-you Dave for stimulating a great conversation!

Accidental Counsellor Course- This will be held on the 26th March, 9am to 12.30pm, at our Community Centre. This is free training, but only small businesses and organisations are eligible (with less than 19 full time equivalent employee'). This course will enable you to feel more confident in how to best respond to a person in need. Increase and enhance your own wellbeing and that of the other person, and learn how to build resilience. Connect to the person and their pain and suffering. They then feel safe and are more likely to trust you. Learn how to help empower others to discover their own solutions, to move from giving solutions to helping them find their own solutions. Contact Robin for RSVP's by the 23rd of March, email info@let.org.au or ph. 0421 or ph. 0421 461 724.

Live Well Die Well Mini Expo

The Live Well Die Well Mini Expo on the 28th of March is a partnership between the Waratah-Wynyard and Circular Head Palliative Care Group and Live Well Tasmania. The Expo is about getting to know your community, learning about self care, resources for the living and the dying, music, and art activities. While the Expo is at the Railway Institute Hall, we have a showing of the film "Tender" at our Community Centre at 28 Saunders Street in Wynyard.

The film is set against the stunning backdrop of the industrial seaside town of Port Kembla, where a feisty and resilient community group are determined to take back the responsibility that most of us leave to someone else - to care for their own dead. Scattered throughout are stories that cut to the core revealing why this small band have decided to take on a practice that for most is taboo. As their plans for community-based funerals gather momentum one of their own is diagnosed with a life-threatening illness. They are not trained or equipped, but they are willing to learn and what they learn they share throughout this film. As they struggle to take on the responsibility of end of life with dignity, humour and cost effectiveness, they do so with the imminent understanding that their friend Nigel is about to die. These two realities converge in Tender and they are a revelation in the power of community spirit.

Please note that seating is limited and all COVID-19 rules apply. To book go to

Green Prescribing/Referral Project

We are very grateful to receive funding from the Mental Health Council of Tasmania for our "Green Prescribing" project. While 'prescribing' tends to be a medical term, a more accurate term for this project is "Referral". The idea is to use the fact that exposure to nature has proven health benefits, some more immediate and obvious, such as lowering stress levels, improving mood, reducing fatigue, and increasing feelings of wellbeing, and others that provide benefits in the longer term, such as improving the immune system, and reducing anxiety. Our project involves building a walking track and a polytunnel at the Live Well Oldina property, and then promoting walking in nature and "indoor gardening" in the polytunnel (great in winter!) to improve health and wellbeing

Basically we are just providing this opportunity for walking and indoor gardening to improve health, and then giving the information that these opportunities are available to GP's. So far we have started scoping out the walking track. We were absolutely delighted to find this magnificent tree, which will be one feature of the walk. If you would like to be involved in this project in any way, please get in touch! Contact Robin on 0421 461 724 or further information including on how you could be involved.

Finally as well as the other events for our Community Exchange Network Tasmania (CENTs) project, we have a CENTs Trading in Hobart based on a Clothes Swap. It will be held on the 27th of March from noon to

Happy veggie box customers - don't forget to order your weekly veggie box from Vasiliki on 0492 984 300

Members of the public are welcome to join in and will be asked to make a gold coin donation at the venue. CENTs Members are FREE. <http://cent.net.au/event/cents-trading-in-hobart-clothes-swap/>

Update Waratah-Wynyard Council

Community Conversations

The Council values good communication and engagement practices and by encouraging open conversations and interactions on local issues they aim to improve service delivery and help inform, empower and connect the community. The aim is to encourage open, transparent and active relationships between the Council, staff and the community and to ensure the delivering of best practice communications and engagement outcomes. One strategy to achieve this aim was to develop a series of Community forums – where individuals could interact with Councillors and senior staff in a one-on-one setting in locations throughout the municipality. There are two sessions coming up – one at Yolla and one at Waratah – see www.warwyn.tas.gov.au for further information.

Sisters Beach Recreation Park Opening

On Saturday 20th February was the official opening of the Sisters Beach Recreation Park. The Know Your Odds Scoot, Skate and BMX Competition Series was also held on the day. The facility adds to an area that is already popular for both locals and visitors. The new park has ramps for bikes, scooters and skateboards, as well as an enclosed basketball half court. The park was made possible with a $70,000 grant from the Tasmanian Community Fund, which council matched.
